Summary

Please summarise the main content, claims, and contributions of the seminar paper in your own words. Please do not include your evaluation of the paper here.

Strengths

Summary of the main strengths of the seminar paper. Please keep it very brief and focus on the following dimensions:

- novelty (how novel is the seminar paper in comparison to the background literature, e.g., new examples are provided)
- soundness (is the submission technically sound and self-contained)
- clarity (is the submission well-organised and clearly written)

Weaknesses

Summary of the main weaknesses of the seminar paper. Please keep it very brief and focus on novelty, soundness, and clarity.

Overall Score

Provide an overall score for the paper. Three scores are available:

- Major Revision (there are many aspects to be revised in this paper and these edits are substantial)
- Minor Revision (there are only few minor aspects to be revised)
- Accept (the paper is fine as it is, modulo some few potential improvements which could be undertaken, but are optional)

Justification of the Overall Score

Provide here a justification for your overall score. What is your impression regarding the clarity and presentation of the seminar paper.

- Is the paper well-organised and clearly written?
- Are the figures, tables, and other visual aids helpful and well-designed?
- How is the typography of the seminar paper?
- Are there any sections that are particularly difficult to understand?
- How is the literature work of the paper?

Major comments

Provide here major remarks on how the paper could be improved, e.g., different structure of the paper or hints on how the technical content could be presented alternatively.

Minor comments

Provide here minor remarks regarding language and grammar, formatting and style, missing citations and ideas for improvement of clarity which affects the text only locally.
